- Level
 - To have people practice as a video game in a sense before taking the actual driving test
- (Story)
 - Have the person drive around using the up and down keys. When he gets near a stop sign he should stop. And there is a time limit of how long the driving sim will take him to complete it. There will be a parallel parking test, and stop sign and a red light that turns green. There will be a timer. If the person can get through the whole thing without fail and time doesn't run out he passes, but the time can run out and he would have to restart from the beginning.
